Priority

1. ☐ The following document has not yet been furnished:

☐ copy of the earlier application whose priority has been claimed (Rule 43bis.1 and 66.7(a)).

☐ translation of the earlier application whose priority has been claimed (Rule 43bis.1 and 66.7(b)).

Consequently it has not been possible to consider the validity of the priority claim. This opinion has nevertheless been established on the assumption that the relevant date in the claimed priority date.

2. ☐ This opinion has been established as if no priority had been claimed due to the fact that the priority claim has been found invalid (Rules 43bis.1 and 64.1). Thus for the purposes of this opinion, the international filing date indicated above is considered to be the relevant date.

3. Additional observations, if necessary:

The validity of the priority claim has not been considered because the International Searching Authority does not have in its possession a copy of the earlier application whose priority has been claimed or, where required, a translation of that earlier application. This opinion has nevertheless been established on the assumption that the relevant date (Rules 43bis.1 and 64.1) is the claimed priority date.

from that which is known from D1 in that excess coating agent is wiped off one or more inner walls by liquid wipers mounted inside the hollow chambers, the hollow profiled extrudate being continuously moved relative to the wipers, the wipers, which comprise at least one magnet or magnetizable material and at least one wiping lip that touches the inner walls and are arranged downstream of the coating agent supply in the zone of the sloped track of the hollow profiled extrudate, being retained in a steady position within the track of the hollow profiled extrudate by counter magnets or magnetizable materials that are fixed next to the outer surface of the continuous hollow profiled extrudate.

2.1.3 The problem addressed by the present invention can therefore be considered that of providing a method which makes uniform coating of the inner region of a hollow extruded profile possible.

2.1.4 The solution proposed in claim 1 of the present application cannot be regarded as inventive (PCT Article 33(3)) for the following reasons:
Document D2 describes an apparatus for coating a tube, comprising a wiping element for excess coating material that is applied. This wiping element partially consists of magnetic material and is kept stationary by an adjacent magnet arranged on the outside of the tube. The tube is moved (column 2, line 40 - column 3, line 42; drawings 1, 6, 7, 8). The circular base of the rubber body with the reference sign 36 in drawing 6 of D2 can be regarded as the wiping lip. Reference is also implicitly made to a wiping lip in the passages in column 4, lines 1-6 and in claim 12 differs in that the liquid wipers additionally have a felt lip and rollers.

4.1.1 The subject matter of claim 12 is therefore novel (PCT Article 33(2)). The problem addressed by the present invention can therefore be considered that of providing a liquid wiper which is easy to handle in a hollow profile with regard to friction.

4.1.2 The solution to this problem that is proposed in claim 12 of the present application involves an inventive step (PCT Article 33(3)), since the solution is neither disclosed nor suggested by the documents cited in the search report.

4.1.3 Claim 13 is dependent on claim 12 and consequently likewise meets the PCT requirements for novelty and inventive step.
